The Design of Microcredit Contracts and Micro Enterprise Finance in Uganda ISBN 9966151148 Format Print Soft Back Author

Dr. Winifred Tarinyeba

Studies have shown that the negative effects of credit market inefficiencies are most felt by smaller firms. Therefore, in countries such as Uganda, where micro enterprises are at the bottom of the economic pyramid, moral hazard and adverse selection severely affect their ability to access formal credit hence limiting their growth potential. Microfinance has been heralded for its use of innovative lending methods to improve access to credit. This book analyzes the law and economics theories on access to credit and enterprise finance and based on case studies in Uganda, presents empirical findings of the promise and limits of contractual innovations in micro credit.

Partnership Law in Uganda ISBN 9966153265 Format Print Soft Back Author Prof. David Bakibinga

The author brings alive the rules of partnership by comparing the partnership with its offspring, the limited company and other associations, then examining its nature and definition with reference to relevant statutory provisions. He then deals with the relationship between partners and outsiders, before considering the relationship between partners. The author also analyses the dissolution of partnership, the relationship between bankruptcy and partnership, the taxation of partnership and the limited partnership recently introduced by the Partnership Act, 2010.

The text is aimed at students taking the Law of Business Associations, Company Law and Partnership Courses in the third or final years of the L.L.B. Degree programmes in East African universities and practitioners majoring in accountancy, business administration, marketing and finance disciplines.

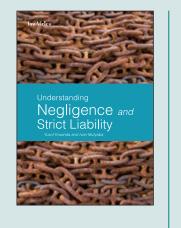

Summary Judgment ISBN 9966712186 Format Print Soft Back Author Hon. Justice (Rtd.) Richard Kuloba

Summary Judgment shows how courts interpret and apply Order 35 in Kenya and Tanzania and the corresponding Order 33 in Uganda. It is a work on the East African summary judgment procedure in civil litigation. This celebrated Order is one of the great innovations of the Rules of Court. This book sets out the illuminating touchstones which guide the crucial judgment involved in balancing the need for expeditious disposition of cases and the right to a plenary trial. Although the cases cited in the texts do not expressly use the same language, they clearly answer the charge that Order 35 might be an unconstitutional deprivation of the right to a trial, by making it plain that the right to a trial does not include the right to a useless trial of nonexistent genuine issues. The book is intended to state the law authoritatively, and serve as a work of reference.

Understanding Negligence and Strict Liability ISBN 9966530202 Format Print Soft Back Author Yusuf Kiwanda and Ivan Mutyaba

Over past decades nobody of law within the civil justice system has experienced greater ferment than the law of torts. Particularly, the law relating to negligence and strict liability, as it is an "everyday accident" that courts address. In agreement with received jurisprudential wisdom, the authors maintain that there is no grand theory that will satisfactorily differentiate or explain the dynamic interactions of change between tort law, negligence and the law relating to strict liability.

The authors attempt to provide a precise and concise appreciation of negligence and the law correlated to strict liability in tort law. There exists a plethora of negligence problems in all jurisdictions, and it is this that the authors try to solve for the readers.

Demise and Rebirth of Parliament: A Kenyan Paradigm ISBN 9966530530 Format Print Soft Back Author H B Ndoria Gicheru

۲

Succinctly, the book examines the death of the Kenya Parliament under the former Constitution and its resurrection under the current Constitution. It falls into three Parts: Part A examines the strangulation, Part B the resuscitation and Part C the possible survival route.

Specific themes addressed in the book include constitutionalism and the rule of law; separation of powers and institutional checks and balances; centrality of Parliament and Speakership in national life; rules of procedure and precedents being as consequential as Parliament itself; role and relevance of the Opposition; selected features of the new Constitution; the way forward for the Republic; etc.

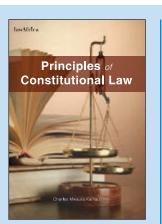

Founding the Constitution of Uganda ISBN 9966031105 Format Print Soft Back Author Hon. Justice (Rtd.) Richard Okumu Wengi

The book attempts to collect together a number of essays and materials on some aspects of Constitution making. The book is divided into three parts, the first of which deals with Constitutionalism generally. The second part is dedicated to civil liberties and economic rights, namely, fundamental human rights, land and taxation. The last part of the book is dedicated to the Judiciary and its performance as the guardian of the Constitution. A synoptic table of the 1967 Constitution and the DC is included for purposes of general structural comparison.

The book is thus designed to provide basic materials to any disinterested reader of literature on public affairs or civic studies in Uganda.

Swearing by Kenya: The Unfolding of a New Constitution ISBN 9966530387 Format Print Soft Back Author Prof. PLO Lumumba

۲

This book brings fourth the virtues and vices, the far reaching vision and narrow viewpoints, the truth and lies, the struggles and defeats, that guided prominent men and women in what may be considered, so far, the most dramatic and exciting chapter of independent Kenya.

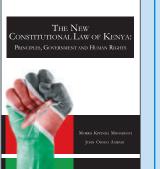

It brings forth to the public eye the heroic efforts of some actors, who should be proud of their patriotism, but this is unavoidably contrasted with the shameful opportunism of other players, who were either blinded by personal narrow ambitions, or who perhaps with the best intentions at heart, did not foresee the damaging historical effects of their passivity, cowardice or lack of patriotism during the constitution-making exercise.

The Constitution of Kenya: Contemporary Readings ISBN 9966153258 Format Print Soft Back Author Prof. PLO Lumumba, Prof. Morris Mbondenyi, Dr. S O Odero

This book, provides an in-depth assessment of the interface between constitutionalism and Kenya's new Constitution. Focusing on the historical trajectory on the search for a new Constitution, Chapter One lays the groundwork upon which the fault line between constitutionalism and the issue areas are articulated in the other chapters in relation to the new Constitution. The superb chapters on the carefully selected issue areas, make this edited volume an essential reading. The book makes an important contribution to the evolving constitutionalism and policy clarification on Kenya's new Constitution. The book is an excellent teaching and reading manual for students in law, history, politics, diplomacy, and international relations as well as for the practitioners. ()

The New Constitutional Law of Kenya: Principles and Human Rights ISBN 9966031372 Format Print Soft Back Author Prof. Morris Mbondenyi and Dr. John Ambani

On 27 August 2010, a new Constitution for Kenya was promulgated. The Constitution seeks to re-orient the country by establishing a robust dispensation for good democratic governance amenable to the exercise of human rights. This book is tailored to unveil to the reader the fundamental normative and institutional frameworks of Kenya's new Constitution. Not only does it define key concepts in constitutional law, generally, it also details how government in Kenya has been restructured and re-organised to give effect to the traditional principles that form the basis of constitutional law.

Criminology may simply be defined as the study of delinquency and crime as social phenomena. In its current use, the term refers to the study of the process of law-making, of breaking the law and the societal response to delinquent and criminal acts. This response includes within its scope legal and non-legal or extra legal producers of handling delinquents and criminal offenders as well as the methods devised for the prevention and control of delinquency and crime.

The main objective of this book was to make available a simplified, readily available introductory reader not only for the students of criminology, but also for the general reader who may be interested in the problems of crime, crime control and prevention.

Criminal Homicide in Uganda ISBN 9966031044 Format Print Soft Back Author Prof. Tibamanya Mwene Mushanga

It is important to do research to try to find out what social forces account for such a high incidence of interpersonal violence in the developing countries and to discover any differences that exist between these countries and the more developed countries. This research presents an analysis of the incidence, trends and patterns of criminal homicide from among a sample of 484 cases committed between 1955 and 1966 in three districts (Ankole, Toro and Kigezi) of Western Uganda. The primary source of his data was the court files, both the district courts and the High Court. These data were supplemented with personal interviews with village elders and policemen, newspaper reports and other information. He also included an analysis of homicide among a number of other tribal groups in Uganda.

This is a collection of essays and papers covering various aspects of crime over a long period of time. These papers are therefore not based on empirical research on crime in East Africa but general observation arising out of experience.

The papers are intended to create some awareness of the problem with the hope that some interest can be generated so that research projects can be undertaken to study different aspects of crime especially the crimes that transcend national boundaries. Ethnic violence that has over the last few years erupted in Rwanda, Burundi, Nigeria, Sudan, and to some extent in Kenya deserves special attention as it actually threatens to be repeated if proper definition of its cause is not done in good time.

ISBN 9966530639 Format Print Soft Back Author Omondi R Owino

This book inquires into the effectiveness of regional and international environmental law frameworks in the Lake Victoria Basin. Such an inquiry in the context of trans-boundary resource co-operation in the Lake Victoria Basin brings to light the anodyne nature of the legal framework and institutions responsible for effective management and transboundary co-operation. It is clear however that the solution lies not in the adoption of more laws to regulate diverse trans-boundary aspects of the Lake Victoria Basin but rather in initiating a strong political process that will eventually enhance the quality of extant laws as well as the reach of institutional implementation. This is because the study underscores political will as a pathway to robust legal measures that drive effective trans-boundary resource co-operation in the Lake Victoria Basin.

Until then, children's rights were seen as falling within the domain of charity and children were treated like they were property or chattel of their parents.

It is a sound foundation for streamlining the rights and protection of children in the East African countries through law both now and in the future. It will also serve as both a resource material in the area of child rights and law, not only in East Africa, but also across Sub-Saharan Africa. \bigcirc

This book is intended to be a clear and practical guide to readers on the principles of land law and conveyancing in Kenya. The author has made deliberate effort to discuss principles of land law and conveyancing in the context of the Kenyan legislative framework. In instances where comparative jurisprudence from other jurisdictions are discussed, the discussion is only meant to reinforce a principle that is already recognised or being enforced under the Kenyan legislative framework. It is because of this focussed approach, the author attempts to take readers through a journey of the various stages of development that the Kenyan legislative framework on land and conveyancing have taken, while critiquing each stage of legislative development.

The Basics of Law: Questions and Answers [Revised Edition] ISBN 9966031181 Format Print Soft Back Author

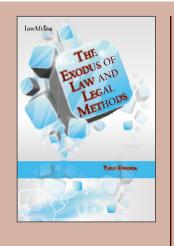

Ð

Peter Mugambi

This new book by Peter Mugambi is essential reading for all students taking introduction to law in CPA, CPS, CCP, KASNEB, KNEC exams and undergraduates. Introduction to Law is considered compact yet comprehensive, well-written, well structured and a stimulating read.

This edition provides a clear and straightforward account of the basic rules of law; Introduces current debates about the nature, scope and functions of the law and discusses the wider controversies surrounding some of the basic doctrines and has been updated to include the new constitution 2010

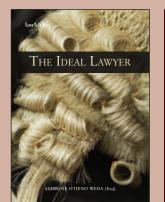

The Exodus of Law and Legal Methods ISBN 9966031358 Format Print Soft Back Author Yusuf Kiwanda

۲

The Author comprehensively attempts to discuss the jurisprudence touching a general understanding of law basically needed in the East African legal community. He aptly covers those areas of law that have been considered basic yet demanding, as observed in various chapters. Reflecting on these substantive and structural features, a theoretically inclined observer might find the book of vital importance, but majorly the book will assist Law undergraduates, academics and students pursuing legal studies in professional courses.

The Ideal Lawyer ISBN 9966031785 Format Print Soft Back Author Ambrose Otieno Weda (Esq,)

The Ideal Lawyer provides a clear and stimulating coverage of practical aspects of professional life, legal practice, character traits, trial advocacy, challenges, capacity building and life skills that are not taught at law school. The book is a constant reference material useful for the training of lawyers during and after law school. It is also a useful handbook for professional persons who strive to polish their levels of professionalism, image, knowledge, financial literacy and popularity. It is a critical centre of reference in tackling the practical challenges of life and practice of law or any other professional. It is full of life skills and anecdotes that would build one into an ideal lawyer or professional. It is a living book. It is a must read for all in competitive professional fields.

The Moot Court Formula ISBN 996670342X Format Print Soft Back Author Ongoya Z Elisha & Eunice W Kiumi

The Moot Court Formula describes the guide, chronicles the experiences of the authors and is a refreshing account of the challenges they faced during their participation in the above and other moot court competitions. One such challenge is the requirement for a thorough understanding of the substance of the relevant law and the procedure for its application and enforcement. The competitions also demand a mastery of the art of articulating arguments before simulated international and regional courts using the relevant rules.

Tax and Development: Solving Kenya's Fiscal Crisis through Human Rights ISBN 9966031006 Format Print Soft Back Author Dr. Attiya Waris

۲

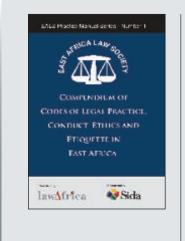

Taxation is perceived by citizens as a compulsory contribution to the state yet, the legitimacy of the state rests on the publics' acceptance of the state's right to levy tax and redistribute it in such a manner as to promote the overall good of society. The modern developing state can be said to be facing a crisis of fiscal legitimacy, afflicted by poor governance, poor societal participation, corruption and a lack of accountability. This book investigates whether a possible remedy in averting the fiscal crisis is firstly, to reestablish a link between taxation and government expenditure in the developing state and to utilise human rights law, principles and policies to link tax revenue to expenditure through re-distribution. It analyses developing countries with reference to Brazil and India and more specifically Kenya

Compendium of Codes of Legal Practice, Conduct, Ethics and Etiquette In East Africa ISBN 9966 Format Print Soft Back Author East Africa Law Society and LawAfrica Publishing

Compendium of Codes of Legal Practice, Conduct, Ethics and Etiquette in East Africa aims to provide for legal practitioners all over East Africa, in a one-stop publication, an easy reference tool, being the basic rules and regulations governing the practice of law. We appreciate that many of our members, especially the younger ones in legal practice, may not have accessed these rules and regulations in written form.

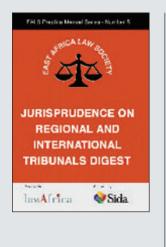

Digest on Human Rights and Access to Justice ISBN 9966712151 Format Print Soft Back Author East Africa Law Society and LawAfrica Publishing

۲

The subject of human rights and its attendant have remained relevant areas to the legal fraternity. This relevance resonates well in the fields of teaching and learning the law, consultancy, legal practice and advocacy, law reform, and judicial decision making. In the East African regions, the availability of research and reference material for these two areas of learning has remained low. It is against the backdrop of the foregoing that the publishing of the Digest on Human Rights and Access to Justice in East Africa is an important aspect of the development of the law in the region.

۲

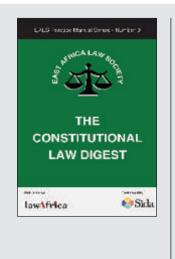

Jurisprudence on Regional and International Tribunals Digest ISBN 9966712194 Format Print Soft Back Author East Africa Law Society and LawAfrica Publishing

۲

The Jurisprudence on Regional and International Tribunals Digest is borne out of the recent developments in the judicial arena of the East African Community and other inter-state arrangements where matters are increasingly getting litigated and determined at the International fora. With such a development, there is more current need to document the reasoning, not just of judicial officers form the East African Court of Justice but also from other Regional and International Tribunals. This will help in consolidating knowledge on diverse aspects of substance and procedure from these tribunals for both academic and practice purposes.

The Constitutional Law Digest ISBN 9966703454 Format Print Soft Back Author East Africa Law Society and LawAfrica Publishing

۲

The Constitutional Law Digest is a helpful tool for the Constitutional scholar in East Africa, practitioner and student alike. It will also be a useful resource manual for individuals in the corporate sector and civil society who are key stakeholders in interpretation of the Constitution and enforcement of fundamental rights and freedoms. It amply illustrates the approach the East African Courts have taken in interpreting their own Constitutions. Several ground-breaking decisions are included in the Digest.

The Tax Law Digest is a digest of tax cases and is targeted primarily at the tax practitioner - lawyer of accountant. It contains a peak into the nascent field of tax jurisprudence in East Africa and covers some important cases that have been handled by the East African superior courts of record. The Digest will be a useful resource manual for practitioners and students alike.

The twenty-five essays in this interdisciplinary, international volume address the question of the objective or purpose of business management from a wide range of theoretical perspectives. Since some of the writers contradict one another, it is not possible that all of them are correct. Nevertheless, the fact that many of them argue persuasively that business managers should aspire to more than maximisation of a financial variable challenges everyone with a theoretical or practical interest in commerce to reconsider acceptance of the owner-value paradigm and to develop a richer conception of the profession of business management.
